Robot Racing is a platform to promote research in autonomous mobile robotics technology in a format that is challenging and exciting, for both the competitors and spectators. The competition provides students with real-world, hands-on engineering design challenges, including components of mechanical design, computer programming, controls software, and system integration. Students work together to design and build robotic vehicles that can navigate twisting, obstacle-filled courses without any human guidance or control.

IARRC 2019 will take place July 11-14, 2019 at the University of Waterloo.

All teams who wish to enter the IARRC 2019 competition must submit their team name/number of attendees and pay an early bird, non-refundable registration fee of $200.00 CAD before March 31st, 2019 at 11:59 PM, EST, or a regular non-refundable registration fee of $400.00 CAD before April 30th, 2019 at 11:59 PM, EST.

Please enter your team name and number of attendees in the additional notes field.

Don't forget the requirements when you fill in the "Additional Notes".
